HONGKONG, MAY 1ST, 1883.

THE annual report of the Postmaster-General, republished yesterday from Saturday's Gazette, contains some interesting remarks on the working of the Hongkong Post Office. Among other subjects dealt with is the question of a Post Office Savings' Bank. As our readers are well aware, this institution has been a most signal success in Great Britain, greatly encouraging thrift among the working classes, and tending to promote the [illegible] by persons who without such incentive to save would simply have scattered their spare cash in reckless manner, doing no good to anybody. The Hon. A. LISTER, after referring to the striking extension of the money order system and the excellent results accruing, says that there is room to hope that the only insuperable obstacles in the way of the establishment of a Post Office Savings' Bank here have been removed, and that during the course of the current year the Bank may be established. The Indians, who have largely patronised the money order department, will, Mr. LISTER thinks, probably be among its most constant supporters. We have on several occasions called attention to the need, in this Colony, for a Savings' Bank, where small sums could be placed on deposit. At present, owing to the lack of such an institution, a great deal of money is wasted on Manila Lottery tickets or expended on useless trifles which might otherwise be laid up in a Savings' Bank against a rainy day. From a report recently made by the Colonial Treasurer of Singapore, giving the returns of the Postal Savings' Banks at Singapore and Penang, we find that the sister colony has been ahead of us in this respect. The Savings' Banks there were established in 1881, and though still in their infancy display signs of progress. The amounts deposited in 1882 were—at Singapore, $22,514; at Penang, $5,538; while the profits were $589 and $29.81 respectively. The Colonial Treasurer, Mr. SKINNER, after quoting the above figures, proceeds to remark:—"These figures "show that, though on a small scale, some "useful purpose is being served by the "Banks, and that at any rate a start has "been made in establishing an institution "which, if it could satisfy the hopes entertained of it in 1877, would prove particularly useful in this Colony. The want "of any habit of saving among the poorer "families of the Eurasian community is "notorious, and among the Malays also it is "the same. But it should be understood "that it is not among these classes that the "Bank is now achieving its small measure "of success. Almost all the depositors are "to be found among the Europeans and "the European and Sikh Police." The ill-advised interference of the Home Authorities has tended to check the progress of the Savings' Banks in the Straits Settlements. When they were started, the Savings' Banks gave interest on deposits at the rate of five per cent. per annum, as they were able to invest at a rate that left a fair margin to cover working expenses. In Great Britain only three per cent. is paid on deposits. The Authorities in Downing Street gave instructions for the Straits Savings' Banks to discontinue their loans and place the funds in deposit in the local Banks. This course necessitated a reduction in the rate of interest on deposits to four per cent., which caused some dissatisfaction and retarded the progress of the Banks. The Home officials apparently forgot to take into consideration the difference in the ordinary rates of interest in England and the Far East, which makes the four per cent. paid by the Straits Savings' Banks correspond to less than 2½ per cent. in England. We are of opinion that five per cent. is the lowest rate that should be paid in the Straits or Hongkong, in both which places the Banks could invest sums in bonds or mortgages at eight per cent., enabling them to make a sufficient profit to cover working expenses, which is really all that should be looked for in a Government institution of a benevolent character like the Postal Savings' Banks. The Colonial Treasurer at Singapore recommends the extension to Malacca, and there is no doubt its conveniences will be increasingly recognised by all classes in the Straits. Nor is there any reason to anticipate that a Savings' Bank in Hongkong would not prove even more successful.

We are glad to hear from Swatow that Messrs. Dircks & Co. have resumed business, their creditors not being at all inclined to press them.

A private telegram was received in Hongkong from Honolulu on Sunday morning stating that Chinese passengers are prohibited from landing there.

We are informed by the Superintendent of the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company that the Saigon-Singapore cable is working badly; there will be a delay on all telegrams for the next few days.

With regard to the volunteers' collation at Kowloon on Saturday we overlooked the fact in reporting that Gunner Adams proposed the health of the Hon. Surgeon that there are two gunners bearing that name in the corps. It would perhaps be as well to state that the gentleman proposing the toast was Gunner M. J. Adams.

The second of the third series of contests in the Lawn Tennis Handicap was played yesterday, when Nowington and Bunbury beat Van Buren and Douglas Jones, two games to love—6 to 3 and 6 to 4. The final tie, best of 5 sets, will be played on the Cricket Ground this afternoon. Play to commence at 5.30 p.m. The sides are Coxon and Allen v. Bunbury and Newington playing even. From the form shewn by Bunbury & Co. yesterday, we anticipate an interesting game, although we look upon the result as a foregone conclusion for the brilliant Coxon and sure and steady Allen.

Yesterday a case of a somewhat serious nature was opened at the Police Court in the shape of a charge of manslaughter against Alex. Bremner, chief engineer of the steamer Breconshire, which recently arrived here from England. The person whose death Mr. Bremner is accused of having caused is a Chinaman named Ng Ahin, alias Asau. The evidence of some of the Chinese members of the crew was taken, and the effect of it was that on the 27th inst., while the vessel was at sea, the defendant had some words with the deceased, whom he afterwards struck and kicked. This was down in the stokehole, and the man ran up on deck to escape. Shortly afterwards he was seen lying dead, and his body was thrown overboard later on. The evidence of the Chinese witnesses was contradicted in some points by that of Samuel Jackson, the third engineer, who stated that he was present all the time the chief engineer was in the stokehole. The case was adjourned till this afternoon, when other evidence will be called.

Many of the difficulties of fixing the hoisting chains under the Carisbrooke as she lies sunk off the Gas Works having been met, the Dock-tions yesterday. Everything being got ready, pumping commenced at five a.m., seven powerful steam pumps being set to work, which threw up altogether about 500 tons of water an hour. The pumping went on with some intervals up till the afternoon, and during the morning the Fame and two steam launches were towing at the sunken vessel. By one o'clock she had been raised about five feet, and moved ahead about a hundred feet; after that time she was moved more rapidly forward, though the progress was still so gradual that the motion could not be noticed. Having been got into shallower water, some 180 feet, the work was suspended for the day, and the vessel was made fast. During the week the operations will be continued, and the next lift it is hoped that she will be got into position for pumping out.

On Saturday afternoon the yacht race we previously announced as arranged, came off, having been postponed from the day originally fixed. Saturday proved a very suitable day for an event of this character, the weather being fine, and a fresh S.E. breeze sent the boats through the water in racing style. Yachting has been in a torpid state in this colony for some time, and we are glad to see that some gentlemen are now endeavouring to revive this pleasant pastime. Saturday's attempt was a very successful one, no less than seven boats, under ten tons, starting. The entries were—Dr. Von der Horek's Sunflower, Mr. Cook's Arrow, Mr. Tripp's Sea Lark, Mr. Leatherbarrow's Sunbeam, Mr. Houghton's Obasan, Mr. Schland's Shrimp, and Mr. Blackhead's Miss Maria. The course was from the Pacific Mail Buoy, leaving it on the starboard hand, through the harbour again to the Channel Rocks, leaving them on the starboard hand, and back to the starting point, leaving the buoy on the starboard hand. The Sea Lark got away very smartly with the lead, and rounded Green Island first, with the Arrow in close company, and making for the Channel Rocks they were still in company until the master of the Sea Lark made a mistake in reaching across to Tsim Tsa Tsui, which put the boat out of the race. The Arrow went along with the lead, and maintained it well to the finish, the Sunflower being second, the Sunbeam third, and Sea Lark fourth. Miss Maria and the Shrimp gave up.

An inquest was held at the Government Civil Hospital yesterday afternoon before the Coroner, Mr. H. E. Wodehouse, and a jury composed of Messrs. William Ditmers, Henry S. Ellis, and José M. da Silva, on the body of Poon Amui, a Chinese female child about thirteen months old. Yip Akan, a watchman employed at the Wanchai Bakery, stated that at 5 p.m. on the 29th April he saw a woman lay down the body of the deceased under a bamboo tree near the Wanchai Bakery. He went up to the body and found it was quite dead. He then took the woman to the Wanchai Police Station. He went to the body immediately he saw the woman put it down.—Yip Sing Quai stated that she was a widow living in Tang Loong Chau. On the 29th April, at 4 p.m., the mother of the deceased, named Pang Ayu, engaged her to take the deceased to the French Convent at Wanchai. The child was living at the time, but was very sick. She took the child but on the way it expired. She then put the child down on the ground in order to go and tell the mother about it. As she was doing so the last witness came up and arrested her. She knew the child was dead because she pinched its nose and it did not cry.—Pang Ayu said she was the wife of a seaman now absent from the colony. The deceased was her child. On the day in question the deceased was very sick and she asked the last witness to take it to the Convent to see if something could be done for it. She gave her 200 cash to take the child to the Convent, not knowing how to take it herself.—Dr. Marques stated that the body was taken to the Hospital at 6 p.m. on the 29th April. From the appearance of the body it appeared to have been sick for some time. There were a good many bruises over the skin as if the child had been medically treated by the Chinese. He was of opinion that death resulted from natural causes. He was unable to say whether death might have been accelerated from exposure.—Inspector Corcoran stated that it was the custom for Chinese parents to take their sick children to leave them at the door of the Convent. They usually employ an outsider for the purpose. They did it in the hope of either getting the child cured or of getting it buried. They did it at the Civil Hospital also. The jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes.

A collision occurred at Singapore about four o'clock on the morning of the 21st April, between the N. I. S. N. Co.'s steamer Sindoro, then leaving for Batavia with the mails, and the Siamese barque Courier, Captain Schimmgelon, lying at anchor in 5 fathoms water within or near the harbour limits. The Courier had just come in from Bangkok with a cargo of rice, and the Captain says she had her anchor light burning, and that it was also bright moonlight. On the part of the Sindoro it is contended that the Courier had no light burning at all. The Courier was struck nearly end on, the steamer being much higher out of water, raking her fore and aft, carrying away the barque's bowsprit, fore and mainmasts, and mizen-topmast, besides doing considerable other damage. The steamer was uninjured, but after the collision she anchored in the harbour, proceeding on her voyage in the afternoon.—Straits Times.

SUPREME COURT.

30th April.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION.

BEFORE THE HON. SIR GEORGE PHILLIPPO, CHIEF JUSTICE.

THE ORIENTAL BANK V. KWOK YIN KAI AND ANOTHER.

The Attorney-General (Hon. E. L. O'Malley), instructed by Messrs. Brereton, Wotton, and Deacon appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Francis, instructed by Messrs. Stephens and Holmes, for the first defendant.

This was a suit brought against the defendants on a bond under which they had become security for Fung Him, compradore to the Oriental Bank, in the sum of $20,000. The claim of the Bank against the compradore, who absconded, was for $15,909 deficiency in his cash account, and $20,000 on two bills of $10,000 each due by the Fow Hing Loong, in which firm it was said the compradore was interested. When the case came on for hearing in the first instance it was referred to the Registrar to report on the accounts. The Attorney-General, for the plaintiff, now put in the Registrar's report, in which it was found that the $15,909 claimed by the plaintiff on the cash account was due by the compradore. The claim on the bills had not been dealt with.

Mr. Francis objected to the findings of the Registrar. He said the plaintiff, instead of filing any detailed account, although express notice was given of the nature of the account required, simply put in before the Registrar an account which was a precise copy of that filed with the petition, which contained only three items, the $15,909 and the two sums of $10,000, and it was stated there was no other account between the compradore and the Bank. He (Mr. Francis) at once objected to the Registrar's proceeding if there was no other account than that and asked that he should report to the court that there was no account between the parties. The Registrar nevertheless proceeded and took evidence which, if it were taken at all, ought not to have been taken by him but by the court. He therefore submitted the proceedings before the Registrar were coram non judice, and that in going into the general evidence of the case the Registrar was going beyond the authority that was given to him. In the second place he objected to the proceedings on the ground that as the Registrar did decide to proceed with the investigation of the claim for $15,000, not as a matter of account but a question of evidence, he refused to allow him (Mr. Francis) to cross-examine the witnesses with reference to certain other matters the object of which was to show there were other items of account some of which it was believed would appear to the credit of the compradore. It was stated in the pleadings that the compradore was connected with the firm by whom the two bills of $10,000 were due, and he (Mr. Francis) wanted to go into the transactions with reference to those bills, and to show that certain amounts had been paid on account of those two bills which would have gone to diminish the total of any balance there might be due from the compradore to the Bank. The Registrar declined to go into that and confined himself exclusively to the deficiency of $15,000 in money alleged to have been in the compradore's hands. Then he would submit that if his Lordship held the Registrar was justified in drawing conclusions from the evidence the conclusions drawn were not such as the evidence warranted. Apart from the question of the daily balance there was sufficient on the evidence to show that there were other matters in which the Fow Hing Loong was interested, and they could have no complete account between the compradore and the Bank until they had the account between the Fow Hing Loong and the Bank. It also appeared there were dealings and transactions between Kwok Yin Kai and the Bank, and until they had all these accounts it could not be said whether there might not be found something due to the credit of the defendant. The broad facts of the case, as stated in the Registrar's report, were that it was the ordinary course of procedure in the Bank that at the end of each day's work all accounts were closed between the compradore and the Bank in respect, at least, of his cash; that on the following morning the manager opened the outer lock of the treasury and the accountant and cashier opened the treasury vault, and Mr. Rutter, the cashier, handed out to the compradore whatever cash he thought was requisite for the day's use, he himself taking out whatever notes might be wanted for the day and keeping them in a safe by his side. With reference to the way in which the money was kept he would call his Lordship's attention to Mr. Mackenzie's evidence. The compradore and the cashier were jointly responsible to the manager, and the compradore was charged with the whole sum in the treasury although he never handled the greater part of it. What he was charged with was not the money handed out to him in the morning, say $100,000, but the whole sum, say $700,000 or $800,000, in the treasury. The compradore and cashier were jointly responsible for the money, and he would submit later on as a point of law that for an account for which the compradore was responsible jointly with another the surety was not responsible. The surety undertook to be responsible for the compradore alone, not for the compradore with others.

His Lordship said that no doubt if Mr. Rutter and the compradore had joined their heads together to defraud the Bank the surety would be discharged, but would he be discharged otherwise?

Mr. Francis said the compradore had not undertaken to be responsible for the compradore joined with some other in the performance of a duty. The other party might be perfectly innocent in the matter, but he thought his Lordship would find on looking at the cases that if the principal had had any other person joined with him in the transactions in respect of which the surety was given, that at once discharged the surety, though the other party might not be the wrong doer. That was a question of law which he presumed would come on later. He was now only dealing with the evidence, and he submitted this was a matter the Registrar ought to have found as a fact.

His Lordship—Would the compradore not be responsible for the portion with which he was entrusted?

Mr. Francis said it might have been so, but that was not the evidence. The evidence was that the compradore was responsible for the whole sum and Mr. Rutter was jointly responsible with him. There was no account showing what was paid out to him each day or what he paid in each day. The whole of the accounts with him were kept on the footing stated by Mr. Mackenzie in his evidence to exist, namely, that the compradore and cashier were jointly responsible for the cash and the accounts were framed on the basis of that joint responsibility, and not on the basis of the responsibility of either of the parties for a particular fund. He admitted there was a great deal in what his Lordship had suggested; he had not overlooked the point; but he submitted the parties were held jointly responsible by the Bank, and the presence of another person as principal destroyed the surety.

His Lordship—Would the Bank have held them jointly liable for a deficit, or would they have endeavoured to ascertain which was liable and have charged him?

Mr. Francis said the Bank might have done as his Lordship suggested, but he submitted that so far as the surety was concerned he was discharged.

His Lordship said the question was whether that state of things could be called joint responsibility; the term was sometimes used in a very vague sense.

Mr. Francis then went on to deal with the other portions of the evidence, contending that the accounts as supplied were not sufficient to charge the surety with a deficit.

The Attorney-General briefly replied to the objections of the defendant, contending that the evidence made it quite clear that the sum found by the Registrar to be due from the compradore was actually due, and that in view of the ordinary course of business in the Bank, as proved in evidence, the question of joint responsibility did not arise.

His Lordship said he would give his decision on the objections hereafter.

The Attorney-General then proceeded to prove the remainder of the plaintiff's claim, on the two bills for $10,000 each, and for this purpose called Mr. Rutter, the cashier, and Mr. Wemyss, the accountant of the Bank. It transpired on the cross-examination of these witnesses that there were other bills in respect of which the Bank held the compradore responsible, and that payments had been made on some of them.

His Lordship said he thought the whole of the transactions would have to be disclosed, and the case was adjourned until Monday in order that the defendant might be supplied by the Bank with a complete account.

Complainant stated that she was inside the Temple at Tung Long Chau among a crowd of people; while she was lighting a candle the prisoner cut off her studs. Prisoner turned away and cut a silver button off another woman's jacket. Complainant tried to seize prisoner but he ran away. She ran after him and saw him caught by a constable.

Another woman corroborated this evidence.

Prisoner said he knocked against a man by accident, and being beaten, he ran away. He had nothing to do with the button stealing.

Complainant stated that she was residing at No. 4, Cochrane-street. On Friday, at 3 p.m., her mistress sent up a servant to hang some matting outside one of the windows. After it was hung up it came down, and the defendant, who lived close to their door, came out of his shop and began to tear it up. She told him not to do so and he commenced to abuse her in most violent language, and kept up for about half an hour. All the road was full with Chinese listening to him. He abused her in Chinese.

Defendant said the bamboo blind fell down on the street just by his shop. He only picked it up. He did not abuse her.

THE STATE OF THE STREETS, MARKETS, &c.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

SIR,—I have for a long time been intending to have a good growl at the state of certain things in Hongkong, but have deferred until our new Governor has fairly settled down, hoping he may look at matters in a rather more British light than there was any hope of our late Governor doing. Having, however, been more than usually worried to-day, I feel in the exact humour for it, and will just give an account of what I have actually seen and heard in one day, and there are few Europeans, I think, who will not agree with me that they ought to be put a stop to.

After rather a hot and sleepless night I was awakened about 5 a.m. by a pack of about six chow dogs standing in the middle of the street yelping and barking as hard as they could at nothing. I got up, and on looking out of my verandah saw the trusty lukong standing complacently under a lamp-post; it was evidently no part of his business to put a stop to the noise. These dogs were at large in the streets and without collar, and therefore should have been taken up had the lukong known and carried out his duty. Several Europeans that I could mention have within the last few months had to pay the sum of $3 for the release of their dogs, but it seems that whereas a European's dog is at once taken up if he gets loose, the Chinaman's chow dog may roam about the streets night and day uncollared in the double sense of the word, I suppose because there is very little chance of getting $3 out of John Chinaman. I would back myself to point out any day hundreds of chow and nondescript dogs without collars on in the streets. Where are the police? But while I am on the subject of chows, I have often heard people remark what good house dogs they are. Now, a greater mistake could hardly be made; a chow will bark at anything, everything, and nothing, so that no one pays attention to his barking. A good house dog is one who only barks when there is a cause. But to resume my growl. I returned to bed and tried to sleep, but it was just beginning to get light and John Chinaman must chop his fire wood to cook his breakfast. This incessant chopping of wood in the streets and everywhere is a great nuisance, and might, I think, reasonably be limited from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; but I fear there is no law about chopping wood. There is, however, an ordinance about firing crackers, and this law has been broken regularly every morning about 8 a.m. since China New Year. Where are the police? But now it is broad daylight and things are getting lively; clash, bang, squeak, comes the delightful music of one of those processions, enlivened by the firing of crackers and the din of the crowd. I got up, having been kept awake since 5 a.m. The crackers in these processions are illegal, and should, therefore, be put a stop to at once; but why the European community should be inconvenienced and annoyed in an English Colony by this hideous heathen din, I fail to see. All day long, every day about this time of the year, procession after procession passes, and it is impossible in many of the Queen's-road and Praya offices to hear one's own voice. It would be an immense relief to the Europeans and no hardship to the Chinese if they were obliged to "stop the music" from say the Fire Brigade Station to the City Hall in the Queen's-road and the P. and O. to the City Hall on the Praya; business, at any rate, might then be carried on without interruption. That there have never been any accidents in driving from these processions is a wonder. Well, after breakfast I sally forth and am jostled and pushed about by every Chinaman; anything like respect for the European is not known or seen: how different it is in India! Every dirty coolie here, whether carrying two baskets of filth or not, slouches along the footpaths, and to save getting in contact with such dirty objects one has to get out of the way. Persons carrying goods are not allowed on the pavements in London; why should they be here? And what pavements they are too? I do not mean the pavements themselves, for they are of granite, and nothing could be better but for the way they are used. I believe there is an ordinance with reference to the height and width of verandahs which is most rigidly enforced, but taking the Queen's-road, which I took the trouble to measure, there is ten feet for each pavement and 30 feet for the road, making a very good street 50 feet in width, which, if kept clear, would amply suffice for the traffic, but instead what have we? Beginning at one wall, the counter of nearly every Chinese shop projects six inches, then if he is a butcher his pigs and ducks hang out beyond that, or if a basket maker his baskets and chairs take up two feet. We then come to the verandah pillar, which of course must be; this has been built to within an inch, but the moment the shop is occupied a Chinese signboard reading from the first floor to the ground and sticking out edgeways occupies another two feet, which, with the two feet before and the verandah pillar, makes 5′ 6″. We then come to a regular permanent stall which is there every day and all day long, and the average of several of these stalls which I measured was 6 feet, making 11′ 6″. The same thing happens on the other side; thus we have 23 feet out of the original 50 feet occupied by encroachments, leaving only 27 feet for public traffic; and what with rickshas, carrying bales of goods, processions, &c., it is no wonder it is not sufficient. To what department the proper keeping of the streets belongs I do not know, but to the police I should think. The dimensions I have given are in no way extreme, but a fair average taken from actual measurements, and one has only to go either westward or eastward in the Queen's-road or Praya to find plenty of places where there is far less left for public traffic; trades of all sorts being carried on in the streets, merchandise laid out on the Praya to dry, firewood and other things permanently stored on it, large stones, old anchors, propellers, &c., lying permanently for the boats to make fast to, there being no bollards in many places, and in the neighbourhood of each market the whole street is used for the sale of vegetables, &c. Why should all this be allowed?

Now I have mentioned markets I must just say a few words about them, and the "Central" in particular, as it is where nearly every European gets his provisions, and it is the worst. A more filthy, ill-kept, insufficient den could hardly be imagined; it would turn the stomach of any white man to see what our food goes through in there, and yet it is a Government Market, the stalls licensed out to Chinamen at so much a month. The stall keepers sleep and eat and live in actual contact with the provisions we have to eat—but enough of such a subject. On the Praya side of the Market I saw a hoarding projecting from the verandah. I have for more than two months wondered if they were going to do any building operations, a licence being required to erect these hoardings, but up to now it has been used for nothing more than the storage of fish baskets. Whose business is it to look after this? Then owing to the horridly wet state the Praya is always in opposite the market the scavenging coolies nearly always miss that portion, for it is too consistent to be swept up with a broom, and they do not appear to be provided with anything in the shape of scrapers.

I must now pass on to the military part of the town. Here I find that they have succeeded, after repeated applications to the Colonial authorities, in getting the whole of the stalls and nuisances removed in the Queen's Road from the East to the West Guard, and what a treat it is to walk there! Why, if the Military have succeeded in obliging the Civil authorities to clear their portion of the road, should not the public, which includes the Military, oblige them to do the same? say in the Queen's Road as far west as the Fire Brigade station, and on the Praya as far as the Harbour Office. Stalls, sign boards, and encroachments of all sorts removed, what a difference it would make to business men in getting about! All over the town street cries and other abominable devices for making a noise, such as bells, gongs, &c., are constantly to be heard, and as I write this I can hear several, while another procession is working up in the distance. I believe I am right in saying there is a law against street calls, then why are they allowed? I will mention only one more point, though I could go on for a week, and I shall have finished my growl, and that is the enclosure of verandahs which is going on in every direction; in fact, no secrecy is made about it. The occupiers simply board and brick them up, putting in windows and using them for dwelling rooms, godowns, &c. Any one who knows anything about either sanitary matters or fires will be able to appreciate the evils this practice may give rise to, yet I believe there is a law about it and a Government official one of whose special duties it is to look after them.—
Yours, &c., GROWLER.

Hongkong, 28th April, 1883.

FOOCHOW.

We learn that the Race Ball, which came off at the Club on the 13th April, was a decided success. About sixty of the élite composed the social assembly, and dancing was kept up until a late hour.

We have it on reliable authority, that four millions of dollars have already been sent up-country for the purchase of the New Season's Teas for the Foochow market. We may thus fairly infer that the home demand is good, and that a prosperous season may be anticipated (?).

We note, with regret, the departure of Mr. Alex. Leith, for many years agent at this Port for the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. This respected gentleman has received a similar appointment at Hankow, and we wish both himself and family every prosperity in their new abode. Mr. J. P. Wade Gardner, who is no stranger at Foochow, has received the appointment from the Board of Directors. The Chinese bankers and tea merchants presented an address to Mr. Leith, of which the following is a translation:—

To Alexander Leith, Esquire, Agent for the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, Foochow.

Sir,—We the undersigned, Chinese bankers, tea, and other merchants of Foochow, desire to convey to you, before you depart from this port, an expression of our esteem and regard as well as our sense of the admirable manner in which you have conducted the business of the corporation you represent. We suppose it is useless for us, in view of the regulations which make it necessary for you to be transferred to another sphere of usefulness, to give expression to our regret at your departure; yet we cannot really wish that you shall go away from among us with the opinion that we have been insensible of our obligations to you for the just manner and uniform course of courtesy as well as for the facility and punctuality in every business transaction which we have been so fortunate as to have extended to us during your management of the Hongkong & Shanghai Bank at this port. We will hope, however, that the day may not be distant when we shall again have the privilege of your presence among us.

With every good wish for you and your family.

[Here follow signatures.]

Foochow, 14th April, 1883.

We need only add that Mr. Leith acknowledge in eulogistic terms the address with which he was honoured, and the deputation retired.—Herald.

THE TERMINATION OF SIR ARTHUR KENNEDY'S GOVERNMENT IN QUEENSLAND.

We have received a copy of the Toowoomba Chronicle and Darling Downs General Advertiser of the 5th April containing an account of a farewell banquet given at Toowoomba to Sir Arthur Kennedy and Miss Kennedy. The banquet was graced by the presence of a number of ladies. On the head table, and opposite the chair, were placed two handsome Albums, containing views of the charming scenery of Toowoomba and its neighbourhood, and of the stations in the district. Engraved upon a silver plate upon the cover of one of the albums was an inscription stating that they were presented to Miss Kennedy by the inhabitants of Toowoomba as a parting souvenir of her residence in Toowoomba. The Mayor, at the conclusion of the speech in which he proposed the toast of the evening, handed the albums to Miss Kennedy—who received them with many expressions of thanks—and concluding his speech asked all present to drink prosperity and happiness to Sir Arthur and Miss Kennedy. The following passage in the Mayor's speech will find an echo in many hearts in Hongkong. Miss Kennedy was also included in the toast he had to propose, and he might say that that lady had ably assisted her father in every movement connected with the social and moral welfare of the people. (Applause.) A great and important duty devolved upon a Governor in occupying the position he did, in giving a tone to society. And as he had just said, those persons did not read history aright who did not recognise the immense influence which a Governor can exercise, for evil or good in a community. Fortunately for Queensland the influence which His Excellency and Miss Kennedy had exercised in their midst had been of immense good. That, he thought, would be admitted on all hands. (Applause.) The influence for good which they had exercised in Queensland, long after they had left the colony and gone elsewhere, would be felt and appreciated by the people with whom they have associated.

The toast was responded to with the greatest enthusiasm, and with musical honours. Three hearty cheers were also given for His Excellency and Miss Kennedy.

His Excellency, in the course of his reply, said:—I have been now among you for six years short of a few days, and during that time Miss Kennedy and myself have had but one object in view, and that was to do the best we could for the public interests. (Applause.) We have made no distinctions amongst the people. Your Chairman has told you what I believe to be true, that Mr. Griffith, the Leader of the Opposition, has just as much confidence in me, as the present Leader of the Ministry. All I know is, that if they have not confidence in me I deserve it at their hands. (Applause.) I have never in any way betrayed the confidence of either. I have endeavoured to promote what they considered to be for the best interests of the public, and they generally turned out to be correct. It would be quite impossible for me—for I am not quite as well as I might be—to follow your Chairman through all he has been pleased to say about me. All I can feel and all I know is that, during a continual service of from 1827 to 1883 I have never been a day idle. I now go home and I will retire my own master, and I will retire a contented man. I will go with clean hands and not very full pockets. However I have got all I want, and I am very sure that those whose care it is to look after old public servants, will see that I get all I ought to have. (Applause.) That you may get as good or a better man among you at the head of society than I have been, I have no doubt. (No, no.) I am not personally acquainted with the gentleman who succeeds me, but I believe from all I know of him, that he is a most deserving man. He is a self-made man like myself. I was not born with a silver spoon in my mouth, I was obliged to work for my bread and I earned it, and here I am after fifty-five or fifty-six years service, retiring a contented man. (Applause.) From the place where I now stand, Toowoomba, will probably come the last and liveliest recollection that I will have of Queensland. I can never forget it. (Applause.) I see around me the representatives of the intelligence, the industry, and the hardworking men of Queensland. They are the people I like to meet and like to see, and I feel under great obligations to these gentlemen, who have done Miss Kennedy and myself this very great honour. If there is anything that will remain fast in our memories, I beg you to believe that our recollections of our residence in Toowoomba, will be among the very last to fade from them. (Great applause.)

President Arthur delivered an address yesterday, in which he referred at some length to the Irish question, and its bearing upon America. So long as they kept within the limits of the law the Government was powerless to interfere, either to suppress their meetings or to restrict their speeches.

The report that evidence of an important character had been found in connection with the recent attack upon Lady Florence Dixie, is said to be unfounded.

Despatches which have been received from Basutoland intimate that the people are in favour of a return to British rule.

Lord Lytton, in the House of Lords last night, called attention to the recent action of the Indian Government in connection with the Local Self-Government and Criminal Procedure Code, and especially referred to the effects of these measures upon the relations between the Natives and Europeans.

His Lordship urged that the policy of the Indian Government tended to destroy the fundamental principles of British Rule.

Lord Kimberley disclaimed any intention of introducing any Parliamentary institutions into India, but cited the opinions of Lords Lawrence, Canning, and Mayo in favour of the extension of the native administration.

His Lordship said that Lord Ripon intended no change in the present system, but to build on lines laid down by his predecessors, in which policy he will be cordially supported by the British Government.

Lord Northbrook warmly defended the Indian Government. He said the scope of the measures had been misapprehended and that they provided ample safeguards against abuses.

The trial of the Phœnix Park murderers will commence this morning; Joseph Brady will be tried first.

INDIAN ITEMS.

CHUPRAH, 8th April.

After the inspection of the Behar Mounted Rifles, a meeting was held of the planters present. It was agreed that each indigo concern in Behar should subscribe to the Anglo-Indian Defence Fund an amount equal to that which they subscribe yearly to the Behar Indigo Planters' Association. About Rs. 20,000 is expected to be forthcoming from the different Indigo Concerns of Behar.

The Behar Planters' contributions should amount to about twenty thousand rupees.

IMPERIAL QUARTO.
ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY,
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.
An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.
For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.
To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.
For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.
It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.

N.B.—This Packet carries no mails for the Australasian Colonies.

The usual hours will be observed in closing the Mails, &c.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' LETTERS.

1.—Privates in H.M. Army or Navy, Non-commissioned Officers,* Bandmasters, Army Schoolmasters (not Superintending or First Class) Writers or Schoolmistresses may send half-ounce letters to the United Kingdom by mail at the rate of four cents (twopence) each, which may be prepaid either in Imperial or in Hongkong Stamps. By private steamer the postage is 2 cents (one penny), which is also the general rate of Postage on Soldiers' and Sailors' letters sent elsewhere.

2.—The same privileges apply to letters addressed to the Privates and Non-commissioned Officers named above.

3.—Private steamers leave Hongkong for London about every ten days.

4.—The letters must not exceed half an ounce. No handkerchiefs, jewellery, &c., can be sent, even with the ends open.

5.—If from a Soldier or Sailor his class and description must be stated in full on the letter, the cover of which must be signed by the Commanding Officer, with name of regiment, ship, &c., in full. If to a Soldier or Sailor, his class and description, with name of regiment, ship, &c., must be stated in full.

6.—Soldiers and Sailors have no privileges with regard to books or papers, nor can these be prepaid with Imperial Stamps.

* But not Warrant Officers, viz.—Conductor, Gunner, Boatswain, or Carpenter.

Boxes of letters are sometimes received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal.

The attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully sealing such boxes with some recognisable seal, and of sending a chit-book or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office: the omission of the former, as to whether part of them might not have been abstracted for the sake of the Postage Stamps.

No responsibility can be accepted by the Post Office for erroneous replies to verbal enquiries, or to notes addressed to subordinate officers. The shroffs told off to sell stamps should especially not be regarded as able to give correct information. The Postal Guide alone is the standard on all points on which such information may be required.

LOCAL AND INDIAN PARCEL POST.

1.—Small Parcels may be sent by Post at Book-Rates between Hongkong and any of the British Post Offices in China, as well as to Japan, Macao, Pakhoi, the Straits Settlements, Ceylon and India. They must not exceed the following dimensions, 2 feet long, 1 foot broad, 1 foot deep, weigh more than 5lbs., nor be smaller than 3 in. by 2 in. by 2 in. Such parcels may be wholly closed if they bear this special endorsement, Parcel, containing no letter, but any parcel may be opened by direction of the Postmaster General. In the Case of Parcels for India a declaration of contents and value is required, a printed form for which is supplied gratis. The Registration of Parcels for India and Ceylon is compulsory.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

Letters, per ½ oz.	10 Cents
Post Cards, each	3 Cents
Books, Patterns, and Commercial Papers, per 2 oz.	2 Cents.
Newspapers & Prices Current, each	2 Cents.
Registration	10 Cents.
Do. with return receipt	15 Cents.

Commercial papers signify such papers—as, though written by hand, do not bear the character of an actual or personal correspondence, such as invoices, deeds, copied music, &c. The charge is the same as for Books, but all packets of and under 4 oz. weight are charged 5 Cents.

MONEY LETTERS.

Public attention is called to the following extract from the Hongkong Postal Guide, Paragraph 60:—

"The Post Office declines all responsibility for unregistered Letters containing Bank Notes &c., and, where Registration has been neglected, WILL MAKE NO ENQUIRIES into alleged losses of such letters."

TEA MUSTERS.

Persons who send Musters of Tea through the Post in Tins are requested to have them made flat or square instead of round, as it is impossible to pack round tins securely in the mail bags. It is believed that the tea will travel more safely in flat tins, which are not so liable as round ones to be bulged in.

4 by 3 by 1½ inches is suggested as a good size. The tins should not have sharp corners.

EXTRACTS.

PLAYING AT CARDS.

Cupid and my Campaspe played
At cards for kisses—Cupi i paid;
He stakes his quiver, bow, and arrows,
His mother's doves and team of sparrows;
Loses them too; then down he throws
The coral of his lip, the rose
Growing on's cheek (but none knows how),
With these the crystal of his brow,
And then the dimple of his chin;
All these did my Campaspe win:
At last he set her both his eyes,
She won, and Cupid blind did rise.
O, Love! has she done this to thee?
Alas! what shall become of me?

AN ANECDOTE OF GAMBETTA.

On one occasion the wife of an ex-Bonapartist Minister, a lady of great fascination, took it upon herself to call upon Gambetta and point out to him how much he would advance his fortunes if he cast in his lot with the Prince Imperial. He listened good-naturedly, "feeling like a mastiff who was being talked to by a tomtit," as he afterwards put it, till at length the lady, taking a bunch of violets (the Bonapartist emblem) from her dress, asked him to wear it in his button-hole that day. "With pleasure," answered Gambetta, glad to bring the interview to an end; but as soon as he had said this he remembered that the date was the 16th of March, the Prince Imperial's birthday, and that if he appeared at the Chamber of Deputies with violets in his button-hole some very silly rumours might get into circulation. He reminded his visitor of this, but she was inexorable. "You've promised!" she said. "Ah, well!" replied Gambetta, and he wore the violets all that afternoon, causing thereby just the sort of gossip he had anticipated.—Cornhill Magazine.

WEIGHT OF WOMEN'S CLOTHES.

In relation to rational dress the dress reformers have, we are glad to see, been advised to give attention to the absurd fashion now prevailing as regards women's dress, and especially at the time of the year, when, in addition to their ordinary clothes, ladies cover themselves with heavy mantles of fur, &c. Many women complain of feeling tired after a short walk, whilst they are really carrying a weight which would soon tire a strong man. Their waists are encircled with a belt or hoop, to which a load heavier than felon's chains is attached, and the shoulders and chest are compressed by an additional burden. Breathing is laboriously performed, and the contents of the trunk and pelvis are thrust down with a force which if represented in pounds would occasion considerable surprise. It would be a matter of great interest if medical men would ask their female patients to ascertain precisely the total weight of the clothes they wear in-doors and out.—London Medical Record.

WHITTIER ON FEMALE EDUCATION.

The venerable poet, Whittier, has deeply at heart the true advancement of woman, and sympathizes with the steps that have recently been taken to grant her the privileges of a higher education. In a recent letter to a friend, which has never been published, he says, in speaking of Brown University: "I hope the time is not far distant when Brown University will be open to women. The traditions of the noble old institution are all in favour of broad liberality and equality of rights and privileges. The state of my health and the increasing weight of years may prevent me from taking an active part in the matter, but it would be a great satisfaction to give my voice in behalf of a measure which I feel certain would redound to the honour and materially promote the prosperity of the college. Brown University cannot afford to hesitate much longer in a matter like this of simple justice. No one who has felt the pulse of public opinion can doubt that the time has come when a liberal educational policy, irrespective of sex, is not only a duty, but a necessity."—New York Tribune.

A HINT FOR THE HIGHLANDS.

There is a valley in the North of Ireland, in the County Antrim, which is second only in fertility to the "Golden Vale" in Tipperary and Limerick. Some two hundred and fifty years ago a large landed proprietor offered the tops of the hills and higher slopes of this valley—which were then totally uncultivated, wild barren land covered with heather, gorse, and rocks—on leases of lives renewable for ever, with a fine or money payment upon the renewal. About a century ago, in place of these leases and fines, free farm deeds were granted to those leaseholders who chose to purchase them. The effect for those who purchased was that the renewal fines ceased, but the rent of 4s. 6d. per acre continued. The tenants, however, are tenants in perpetuity at this nominal rent. The holders of these leases know that the land is practically their own, and since the free farm deeds were granted the feeling of security is so great that there has been a marked improvement in the cultivation of the farms, the comfort of the dwellings, and the intelligence and taste of the people. At the present day these farms, stretching a considerable distance along the slopes of the hill-side, are in the highest state of cultivation. Inch by inch, acre by acre, the land has been reclaimed.—"Norway in June," by Mrs. Stone.

THE NUBIANS OF THE NILE.

The Nubians of the Nile, or, as they are called, Barabras, or Berberines, are divided into three sections—the Nubas, Kenoos, and Dongolawi—and inhabit the valley of the Nile from Egypt to the borders of Sennar. They are an industrious race, and are found in Egypt in numbers, owing to their custom of going to that country in the capacity of free labourers. They plant date-trees and erect irrigating wheels, and sow grass and leguminous plants. In their disposition they are far superior to the other sections of Nubians just described, being honest and peaceable, though not slavish. Their dress consists of a white cotton robe, and their arms of a dagger, spear, and shield of hippopotamus and crocodile hide, with a boss in the centre. In addition, they frequently carry the straight Hamran Arab sword. The girls wear nothing but a little apron, gaily dyed, a characteristic of dress which they possess in common with the Latookas, of the same Nile valley. This apron, among the more polished Nubians, is, however, a much more elaborately-ornamented affair, being laden with ornaments of gold and silver, heirlooms from generation to generation, the arms, neck, and ankles of the girls being also in most cases ornamented in a similar manner. After she is married a loose robe is added to this Eve-like garment. Both sexes wear amulets, sewn up in leather, either on their arms or fastened into their locks, which are saturated with castor-oil. Their houses are pyramidal mud huts with a courtyard surrounded by a wall, and shaded with palms. Though despised by the Arabs, the Nubians are proud of their country, and are hospitable to strangers, and provident, in so far that they have in the vicinity of their houses granaries, which are simply shallow pits covered with white plaster. Their industry is, however, severely repressed by the galling taxes to which the Egyptian Government subjects them, the frequent forced labour on public works, and the still more irksome impressment of soldiers in the national army, the duties of which took them for long periods far from their much-loved homes in the years prior to 1882, when the army was disbanded.—The Peoples of the World.
